HIGHTOWER SEEKS FREEDOM THROUGH BENDER ARREST

Detective Declares That He Connects Bender With Slaying Priest

IS ARBUCKLE WITNESS

Joyce Clark Figures in Story Related by Detective to Officials

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Although a formal complaint charging David Bender with the murder of Father Patrick E. Heslin has been filed before Judge Ellis C. Johnson at Daly City, no steps have been taken for the issuance of a warrant.

The complaint was sworn to by J. Harry Dunlap, detective in the employe of attorneys for William A. Hightower, finder of the body of the priest, who is held on the charge of killing the priest.

Dunlap says his investigation revealed that Bender wore an overcoat like the one worn by the man who decoyed the priest from his Colma parish house. He also claimed that in Joyce Clark, who figures in the Arbuckle case, he found the "Dolly Mason" who figured in Hightower's explanation of how he found the priest's body.

District Atorney J. Franklin Smart of Redwood City declares that Hightower failed to identify Miss Clark, who said he had never seen her before. Miss Clark, a friend of Bender's, denied that he had never seen her before. Miss Clark said Bender had nothing to do with the priest's case and that she could account for his actions during that period. Bender gained considerable notice during his stay in jail here because of his friendliness toward Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, who occupied a nearby cell.

Mayor Robinson today issued a proclamation on behalf of the city of Glendale and its people, extending the city's and citizens' welcome to members of the famous Ninety-first division, who will assemble tomorrow in Los Angeles in annual reunion. The mayor's proclamation follows:

"Being mindful of the great part taken in the World War by the famous Ninety-first division, made up of men from California, Oregon, Montana and Washington, we of Southern California especially appreciate their presence in this section of the state, and extend the welcome of the city of Glendale to each and every member of the great fighting unit of the World War.

"We recall, and are always mindful of the great work done in the Argonne forest in France and in the Lys-Scheldt drive in Belgium and in the St. Mihiel drive as well, and, in extending the welcome of the city of Glendale to the veterans who still answer the roll call, we bow our heads in reverence in honor of the members of the Ninety-first division who did not return. The heroes of the Ninety-first, both passed beyond and those who live, have the everlasting gratification of the people of California.

"(Signed) SPENCER ROBINSON,
"Mayor and President of the City Council."

The ladies took a bountiful luncheon and invited the inmates to be their guests at the spread, and after the meal a program of music and miscellaneous entertainment was enjoyed.

The donations consisted for the most part of canned vegetables and sea foods, and $25 in cash, to be expended for silverware and table linen.

SCHOOL PATRONS UP IN ARMS AGAINST OLD BUILDING

A very decided demand for the replacement of the present school buildings on the Cerritos avenue campus with a new, fireproof structure, was expressed at the meeting of the South Glendale Improvement Club last night. It was the chief theme of the session.

W. F. Anderson reported that the city council had promised to put in an additional water main to afford fire protection to the school as soon as the pipe can be obtained and laid.

The report of Fire Chief Lankford discounting the fears of parents relative to the safety of the building, was severely criticized in general discussion, in which W. E. Anderson, Dr. Harry St. Clair, Mrs. Ernest Morgan, Mrs. A. J. Becker, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, Harry Hague,, Walter Sullivan and Miss Corinne Orff took part.

Mrs. Morgan voiced the sentiment of the assembly. "We feel," she said, "that something should be done, that the Cerritos avenue school is a very dangerous proposition inasmuch as it is an old-style, two-story frame building with 500 children in attendance. The possible death of one child is of more consequence than the proportions of half a dozen bond issues.

"The furnace, which is an old-style distillate heater, is directly under the stairs. If the floor should burn through, the whole rotunda would be a mass of flames. The door always stands open and there is always a draft which would carry the fire upward throughout the building.

"This staircase and the small fire chutes which would be quite inadequate at such a time, would constitute the only means of egress.

"The first floor, where the first, second and third grades are located, is 12 to 15 feet above the ground, and from that floor there is no chute. I would not want a child of mine to jump from one of those windows.

"We have had one bond election after another for school purposes and very little has been spent in the south part of Glendale. Our people down here have been asleep, but now we have waked up and are determined to have what is right. Unless we can get some assurance that we are going to secure it, we will support no more school bond issues."

At the conclusion of the discussion the association voted to call a mass meeting for next Wednesday evening and the secretary, Mrs. Bacon, was instructed to invite members of the Glendale board of education to be present and discuss school problems in that part of the city.

HAZED STUDENT IS CAUSE OF SEARCH

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—A squad of Evanston police and volunteer members of the Northwestern University student body are searching the woods and beaches north of Chicago today for Leighton Mount, 18, a Northwestern student, who has not been seen since the annual class fight between the Freshman and Sophomore classes Wednesday night. His parents fear he is the victim of hazing. Mount is a member of the Freshman class, which defeated the Sophomores.

According to other students several Freshmen were captured by the Sophomores, taken to the edge of the wood, forced to undress and abandoned. It is thought that Mount may have been among this number and that, fearful to emerge from the woods unclothed, he may have been overcome by exposure.

NEW LAUNDRY IS THE CAUSE OF PROTEST TO COUNCIL

Oscar Newby and Others Appear Before Board Last Evening

PROPERTY DEPRECIATES

Action Deferred On Matter After Lengthy Discussion for Week

Oscar Newby appeared before the City Council last night, accompanied by a delegation of property owners in the vicinity of the proposed new laundry site on Verdugo wash near Pacific and Arden avenues, and protested against granting a permit to operate the laundry. According to Mr. Newby a laundry at that location would tend to lower the value of property and would make the district undesirable as a residence section.

Mr. Newby stated that it was unfair to the property owners that had purchased property in the district and erected homes, for a laundry to be located there. Mrs. M. L. Tight supported the statements of Mr. Newby.

Councilman Stephenson signified his opposition to the permit and said he agreed with Mr. Newby that it was unjust to the property owners of the section involved to allow a laundry to be operated within a few hundred feet of their homes. He also said that he did not think any member of the Council would buy property within four blocks of a laundry in any part of the city. Councilman Lapham took the same stand.

Councilman Davis moved that the permit be granted. There was no second, and later Stephenson moved that the permit be denied, which was seconded by Lapham. The motion was defeated by the votes of Davis, Kimlin and Robinson. Kimlin presented a motion that the matter of the permit be laid over for one week, which carried.

BAY CITY WOMAN SHOOTS HEIRESS; THEN SUICIDES

Mrs. Grace Lawes Is Dead, the Victim of Bad Liquor and Gay Parties

TOO MUCH HIGH LIFE

Mildred Hannan, Shot Twice by Her Rival, Will Probably Not Die

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Jealousy today prompted a beautiful young divorcee to attempt to slay a wealthy heiress, her rival for the affections of a handsome exporter, who has an office in Wall street and then, in dramatic fashion, to blow her own brains out.

Miss Mildred Hanan, granddaughter of the late multi-millionaire shoe manufacturer, James M. Hanan, was shot twice and seriously wounded by Mrs. Grace Lawes, a jealous rival, who then ended her own life. Miss Hanan was being escorted to an automobile by John S. Borland, exporter.

Miss Hanan was hurried to the Long Island hospital, where it was found one bullet had entered her breast and probably punctured a lung, while another plowed its way through the flesh of her left arm.

Borland, the only witness of the shooting, admitted to police the jealousy of him probably was the cause of the tragedy. Mrs. Lawes, who has been living at the Vanderbilt hotel was a well-to-do divorcee of San Francisco.

A check-up of events shows Mrs. Lawes evidently had laid in wait, having stayed in the basement of a house possibly more than an hour, for her intended victim. Miss Hanan, Borland said, recognized Mrs. Lawes immediately.

"Oh, there's Grace," she said, in evident surprise.

Mrs. Lawes was fingering at her handbag. As she reached the street in front of the apartment house, she cried:

"Now I have you!"

Immediately Mrs. Lawes opened fire. Miss Hanan staggered at the first shot. She collapsed at the second. Mrs. Lawes stepped back a pace or two and sent a bullet into her own brain.

The wounded heiress scrambled to her feet with the blood streaming from her arm, staggered a few feet away, and sat down.

A policeman rushed up and found Miss Hanan moaning. Borland was nearby. An ambulance was summoned and both women were taken to the nearest hospital. Borland was taken to a police station and questioned.

Two letters written by Mrs. Lawes were found in her handbag. One of them follows:

"Mrs. M. E. Dittman, 316 Walnut street, San Francisco.

"Mother darling:—You can never understand what I have gone through here. Don't try to learn. It is fast. I am too tired and ill to try to overcome the great obstacles I have placed in my own way. Too much high life in New York and the pace is too fast. The liquor here has driven me crazy, mother dear. Forgive me and forget, and remember to pray for my soul. Love to all and think of me always. Say to yourself always, 'A good, sweet daughter.

"Lovingly,
"GRACE."

But the paper which was delivered to me last night completely revolutionized my sentiments. When I found that it is to feature the poems of James L. Foley, the editorials of Dr. Frank Crane and Henry James, I was simply delighted because I have always been such an admirer of all three. I think the change is a distinct gain."

HOTEL ALLEY TOOK UP MUCH TIME IN COUNCIL MEET

Nearby Resident Enters Protest Against Proposed Plan of Hotel

WANT HOTEL ASSURED

Easement for Underground Poles To Be Given City of Glendale at Once

Owen Emery, representing the Ambrosini Hotel Co., appeared before the City Council last night and asked for a decision on closing a portion of the alley between Glendale avenue and Everett, running north and south from Broadway to Wilson avenue. The Ambrosini Hotel Co. requested that this portion of the alley be closed to allow more space for the new hotel.

Mr. Emery stated that the company is very anxious for a ruling regarding the alley, as plans for the hotel are in the hands of a draughtsman and they are anxious to begin the construction of the hotel.

Mr. Johnston, who owns property in the vicinity of the hotel site, protested against closing the alley. According to Mr. Johnston the hotel company should take other portions of the property for an alley in return for the part to be closed. After discussion it was decided that such action was unnecessary as the closing of a portion of the alley would not make the present alley a blind.

Councilman Davis suggested that if the Council granted the closing of the alley it was no more than fair that Mr. Ambrosini should post a forfeit to insure the erection of the hotel. This proposal was agreed to and with the understanding that the Ambrosini Hotel Co. deposit a deed to the portion of land to be closed for the hotel to be returned to the city in the event that the hotel is not built.

A deed granting an easement to the city for an underground pole line to the city was also agreed upon, and the Ambrosini Hotel Co. also agreed to pay all expense incurred by the city in the transfer of the present pole line to an underground system.

With these terms agreed upon, the city engineer was instructed to draft a proposal for vacating the alley and have the proposal ready for action next Thursday night.

RUSSIAN WOMEN ARE SLOWLY STARVING IN FAMINE AREA

By ANNA LOUISE STRONG
(Special Correspondent of the International News Service. Copyright, 1921, by International News Service).

SAMARA, Russia, Sept. 20, via London, Sept. 23.—I came upon a Russian woman just as I left the relief train today. She was barefooted. Her clothing consisted of dirty rags. Her face was a yellowish gray. Her body was shrunken and her hands and feet were like claws. The breath came in fluttering feeble gasps. I offered her a piece of white bread. She opened her eyes but was so weak she could not raise her hand. I lifted her hand and placed the bread within it, but the hand fell back to earth and the bread rolled from it. I broke off a piece and placed it in her mouth. The lips opened feebly but she could not chew. She was too weak.

All hope of life had fled. This is the picture of starving Russian womanhood in the famine area. It is not a pretty picture for the well-fed outside world to ponder, but it is a true one.

Outside food is coming now into the Samara district. Beans, compressed vegetables, from which a thick soup is made, bread, chocolate and cod liver oil are now being distributed according to the quantities on hand.

Women and children first is the rule. The children are sad spectacles. Their little bodies are wasted and dirty and their clothing is ragged. Many are covered with sores from scurvy.

The first foreign food actually distributed in the famine region is a supply of beans which were given away today through the provincial co-operative society for child feeding outside the city.

The second batch of food distributed consisted of two tons of cod liver oil—this is considered a food, not a medicine—two tons of cocoa and one ton of dried vegetables. It was turned over to the provincial health authorities ofr immediate use in the country hospitals where great numbers of under-nuourished children are sheltered.

The world's sugar supply is derived annually from over 12,000,000 acres, this acreage being divided between cane and beets.

BRYAN SEES GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR PARTY IN 1922

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The political wheel of fortune is turning toward a democratic victory at the polls next year, in the opinion of William Jennings Bryan. It is based, he said, on an observation of conditions the country over during a three months' lecture tour which he has just completed.

The Commoner stopped off in Washington for a look into the latest prohibition fight in Congress before proceeding to New York.

"There are five causes which will contribute to Democratic success next year," he said.

"The revenue bill relieves less than 5,000 men with big incomes and makes the burden relatively heavier on the rest of the people. It also repeals the excess profits tax for the benefit of a few corporations and relatively adds to the taxes of the rest. It will please few and displease a great many. The farmers have suffered. They are selling their products at half price and buying at high prices. There is revolt among them. Wages are falling and wage earners will not be in a happy frame of mind next year. The ex-service men are not pleased with the treatment they have received. The successful merchant will be taking his loss by next year and it will not make him especially enthusiastic. Add these together and you have a formidable complaint which will be raised at the polls next year."

Asked point blank concerning his own aspirations toward leadership of the Democratic party, the Commoner replied enigmatically:

"There has been no time in the past 40 years when I did not feel a deep interest in politics. I do not notice any appreciable decrease in my interest now."

WEAKER SEX GETS BEFORE COURT IN BAY CITY TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—They call 'em the weaker sex, but few men could have gone through the endurance test that let the best "man win a seat at the preliminary hearing in the Arbuckle case before Judge Sylvain Lazarus yesterday.

The women came mostly in groups. Some of them came alone. Before 1 o'clock 5000 had congregated in the corridors of the hall. Men had been ruled out from attendance by order of the judge.

It was nothing to the crowd of women to stand for three solid hours on high heeled satin slippers: it was to them the merest inconvenience to go without luncheon or food of any kind from early morning until late afternoon.

They stormed the big double doors leading into the court room: they packed the entrance to the bailiff's doors and jammed the ane-chamber of the judge's rooms.

Some forgot their fine silks and velvets and sat on a low step on the floor.

All of them had come to "see Fatty." And there was triumph in their eyes, even though they staggered with fatigue.

HUNTING-FISHING CALL BEING HEARD

Santa Monica is having a big run of mackerel and anglers are carrying them home by the baskets full. A number of Glendale residents say that the mackerel are coming in thick and fast. A few sea trout, smelt, croakers and herring are also being taken at this beach.

Playa del Rey—Jack smelt, a few mackerel, herring and yellow fin. Fishing fair.

Manhattan Beach—Jack smelt, mackerel, herring and a few halibut. Fishing fair.

Hermosa Beach—A few mackerel, jack smelt, herring and a few croakers. Fishing fair.

Redondo—Halibut, sea bass, mackerel, and jack smelt. Fishing fair.

The anglers who are taking the trips in the fishing boats report wonderful catches of baracuda, yellowtail, horse mackerel, sea bass, etc. These boats leave from Long Beach and Santa Monica daily.

In certain localities trout fishing is good and anglers are taking advantage of the last week of the season, which closes September 30. There is very little doing in the close-in streams. The best fishing is to be obtained at the Upper Sespe, Santa Maria, Santa Ynez, etc. Some are having a little luck in the Ventura river and tributary streams.

Bass fishing has fallen off in the fresh water lakes.

Not a great deal of success is being reported in deer bagging by local hunters, especially where the hills close-in are hunted. There is fair hunting in the mountains back of Bishop and up around Frazier Mountain.

Doves are becoming scarce—they are getting gun-shy. Some can be bagged in the hills around Saugus, Newhall, Calabassas, etc. The season on doves closes at midnight, October 30.

Duck season opens October 1. Hunters go to the marshes around Seal Beach, Anaheim Landing, etc., and to the various gun clubs. Hunters should have better luck this season than for years, as the birds are fat and are not at all gun-shy. Shore birds may be secured around El Segundo.

A fishing and hunting report will be given on each Friday in The Press. This will be furnished by Gus Wangenheim, who is in charge of the sporting goods department of the Neale & Gregg Hardware store.

HOUSE LEADERS PLAN KU KLUX KLAN QUIZ

Congressman Peter F. Tague, of Massachusetts, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, is one of the number of Congressmen who will demand an immediate inquiry into the activities of the Ku Klux Klan when the House assembles.

KU KLUX KLANNERS GO TO WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—High officials of the Ku Klux Klan may be summoned to Washington for interrogation by the Department of Justice, Attorney General Daugherty indicated today.

Director Burns of the department's bureau of investigation, Mr. Daugherty announced, has been instructed to set his agents at work on an investigation of the Klan's organization in various parts of the country.

JERSEY MAN GETS A GRUESOME GIFT

NEWTON, N. J., Sept. 23. — The neighboring town of Ogdensburg has a gruesome mystery. Lawrence Pierce, a minor official of the New Jersey Zinc Co., received at his home last night a present of a woman's foot. It had been embalmed. The foot had been buried three or four years before being dug up for presentation to Pierce, who is at loss to understand the significance, if any, of the gift.

WHITE MEN VISITED HOPI INDIAN DANCE

GALLUP, N. M., Sept. 23.—General Hugh L. Scott, hero of many Indian battles, encountered his strangest experience among the red men when he witnessed the weird Hopi "snake dance" at the Hopi Indian reservation, in Arizona, just across the New Mexico-Arizona boundary line, according to information reaching this city today.

General Scott, accompanied by General John A. Johnson and Col. J. H. Slocum, visited the reservation recently when the "snake dance," most weird of all pagan rites on this continent, was in progress. The party was on a tour of inspection of government properties and was enroute to Fort Reliance, west of this city.

Twenty feet beneath the surface of the ground, in a small room hewn from the raw earth and lighted only by a flickering torch at the far end, above a sacred sand picture, sat the three medicine men. In a pit at one side of the sacred kiva, for these men were gathered in the Hopi holy of holies, were nearly 200 rattlesnakes, the whirr of their rattles morbidly breaking the underground silence.

One of the medicine men rose and mumbled a prayer over an earthen jar of Indian cornmeal. His naked, lime-smeared body appeared ghastly as he passed the sacred cornmeal to General Scott and motioned him to eat. The general touched a bit of it to his lips and passed it to his two aides, who followed his example. The army officers mumbled Hopi words, syllable by syllable, after the "snake priest" and then climbed the rude ladder to the open air above.

Bites Non-Infectious

A solemn seriousness marked the entire proceedings.

General Scott, General Johnson and Colonel Slocum, it is believed, are among the very few white men who have been accorded the privilege of witnessing the sacred rite of the Hopi snake dance. The late former President, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, is said to have witnessed the ceremony.

The Hopis worship rattlesnakes. They believe them to be in close communication with the gods that control the weather elements. Each year several hundred snakes are gathered for the ceremony and imprisoned in the kiva for two weeks, where prayers are said over the reptiles and "messages" given them for delivery to the gods. Then the snakes are brought to the surface by the "snake priests," and the dance begins, to the accompaniment of huge tom toms. The priests grip the snakes in their teeth, just back of the heads, and thus hold them and dance for hours at a time.

A majority of the dancers are bitten during the ceremony, but none have ever been known to suffer or in any way become affected by the bite. The Indians are extremely reticent about discussin their apparent immunity from the snake bites, laconically answering questions by saying that the rattlers are "friends of the snake priests."

Several theories have been advanced in explanation of the non-infection of the snake bites, but the most generally accepted one is that the dancers rub tiny bits of the venom into their skins before the dance and gradually increase the quality until they are completely immunized. It is known that neither the rattlers nor the venom sacs are removed from the snakes before the weird ceremony is started.

Upon completion of the dance the snakes are released and, according to Hopi tradition, they return to the gods beneath the earth with their messages from the priests.

DEBS IS MEMBER OF PRESIDENT'S CABINET

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The rumbling of fame and genius have "passed up" the town of Mishawaka, in Western Illinois.

The Sinn Fein is an organization of Chinese in California who have become very dangerous, said a history student in the Mishawaka high school during a contest on current events. Now the school board is wondering whether to continue the subject.

Another student described Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, as the "leader of the American wets.'" Lloyd George, British premier, was termed "King of England."

Other replies were:

Who is Eugene Debs?—Member of the cabinet.

Who is Rene Viviani?—Premier of South America.

Who is Simons?—The man who made deaf and dumb people talk.

Who is Lenine?—President of Germany.

Who is Caproni?—Inventor of wireless.

Who is John Burroughs?—Inventor of the adding machine.

ELABORATE PLANS FOR SCHOOL HEADS

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 23.—Elaborate plans are being made for the convention of the city and county school superintendents of the state, to be held here September 26 to 30.

Henry C. Johnson, superintendent of the San Diego city schools, is chairman of the committee on entertainment and has arranged for a dance and reception Monday evening.

On Tuesday a reception will be held on one of the battleships and a ride about the bay will be arranged for the visitors for Wednesday.

LEGION HEAD IS STILL IN PLACE

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23.—John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, while visiting national Legion headquarters here yesterday, gave his version of the "revolt" party among members of the Legion party who recently toured Belgium and France.

According to some members of the party, Emery, whose home is in Grand Rapids, Mich., was "deposed" as leader of the delegation.

The types of sleeves emphasized in the dress modes have been both long and slashed.

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP; SOME GOLD IS TARNISHED

Hurray for our side! A New York judge last week declined to give W. E. D. Stokes an absolute divorce. The aged millionaire has one foot in the grave and the other seems to still be travelling the primrose path. After mistreating, insulting and vilifying the name of the mother of his children, Stokes applied for a divorce. He accused his young wife of every crime on the calendar except murder, but he didn't prove anything.

The New York judge who decided the case has been reviewing the testimony for some two or three months, and when handing down the decision, declined to give Stokes a divorce, and allowed Mrs. Stokes everything she asked in a counter suit.

Some six or seven months ago, an eastern newspaper published a full story of the activities of the man Stokes, now about 70 years old. If a man could be baser than Stokes, according to the story printed, we do not see how he could live among decent people.

The men who have millions of dollars, largely inherited, are going to find this country a very dull place some day. We expect to live to see the day when the millionaires will have to eat out of tin plates and drink out of tin cups in prisons the same as poor men who violate the laws.

We do not know the New York judge who cooked Stokes' goose, but we do know that the nation needs more like him and more like Judge Landis of the Chicago district of the United States Court. They may not be great on professional ethics, but for real, unadulterated justice, they are there.

If it were possible, we would like to see W. E. D. Stokes sentenced to the north pole for life and ten years more and Jim Stillman given a like sentence at the south pole. They are too much alike to be together. Stokes and Stillman have no respect for themselves nor for anyone else, and so far as "anyone else" is concerned, the feeling is probably mutual. Outside of that, Stokes and Stillman are probably all right.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Bolshevists in this country, such as Norman Hapgood, have made much over the refusal of the United States to open commercial relations with Russia. They have ignored utterly the fact that capitalists have made every effort to establish trade, sold goods that could not be delivered, on orders from Russians who had no money. On the other hand Americans have offered to invest in Russia, to buy its products, and in each instance have been flimflammed. American bolshevists, chary as they are of praise for everything but sovietism, did praise England for negotiating with Russia commercially as though treating with people who were acting in good faith. Russia promised that in view of the relief it would experience from influx of English goods, it would cease its propaganda work outside its own domain. Of course the promise was not kept, and no effort was made to keep it. Russian agents in India and the Near East continue the effort to poison public opinion to the end that civilization may sink to the Russian level of despair and suffering, and all men be "free" to starve.

Gifford Pinchot's statement that all the Irish are fighting for is liberty, takes its temporary place in the list of things labeled "Important if true." But upon scrutiny it must be expelled even from this list, because the element of truth is not sufficient to keep it in the doubtful class. It is quite useless for Pinchot, though he have access to the columns of the noble patriot, Hearst, to hope to stir up much sympathy in this country for a truculent faction, some of whom happen to be Irish. That in the war just over, in which the United States had much at stake, leaders of the faction in question were giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and by that act became enemies themselves; that troops and ships had to be diverted from the task of defeating Germany to the ugly task of holding these secret foes in check, is very recent history. Americans have not forgotten this, and they do not feel any impulse to forgive it, especially in the absence of all signs of penitence.

Drug addicts finding a supply hard to obtain, have turned to paraldehyde, and are finding much joy; until the stuff kills them, after which, of course, what they may find is problematical. When a person insists upon destroying himself with drugs, to supply him with plenty and tell him to hurry to a finish, might seem brutal, but it would save society much annoyance.

The government balloon school at Arcadia is to be continued and enlarged, no thanks to the community benefiting most directly. The support of a small issue of bonds was asked, and upon the result it was supposed the future of the school would depend. Without the support to be derived from the bonds, the school was to suspend. Nevertheless the bonds were defeated once, and just for emphasis, defeated at a second election. Certain enterprising men in Los Angeles then raised the money.

With the effort to have Mrs. Oberchain released on bail it is the province of the courts alone to deal. The public is interested, however, realizing that release on bail would mean that the bottom had dropped out of the case, and that trouble and expense would be saved by dropping it from the calendar.

In the opinion of the writer the censoring of pictures should be at the time and place of their production. If every state, and then every city and town is to have a separate system of censorship, one of the large industries of the country will not be merely crippled, but will be destroyed. If every book written had to undergo a similar ordeal, not even the innocuous Harold Bell Wright could get by. There would be no books printed.

Explosion of a chemical works in Germany, resulting in more than a thousand deaths, probably represents as great a disaster as ever marked any industry in time of peace. There were parts of Europe in which wholesale deaths and destruction, deliberately planned, had been quite common, such events being regarded as the concomitants of war, but the catastrophe overwhelming victims who were engaged in civil pursuits carries with it a shock more profound, the mind not being prepared for it.

AT THE LISTENING POST

"Way back east," as we say, they have thunderstorms.

Vivid and rending discharges of lightning and clap and thunder and peal.

Rip and rattle and tear and split and crash.

As though the whole fabric of the heavens were being ripped and torn.

* * *

The day is hot and "muggy" as we say.

Difficult to get satisfying air.

There is a humidity that oppresses and hangs heavily on you like a steamed sheet of air.

* * *

Collars wilt and underwear sticks and foreheads and faces are dripping with perspiration.

And there is no place you can go to cool off.

For a pall of heat hangs sometimes over the whole valley of the Mississippi.

* * *

For a thousand miles from east to west and another thousand from north to south there is a kind of trough in which the heat and humidity lie.

And there are no mountains to fly to and no ocean within a few miles to get satisfying air from.

* * *

Nature seems to have stored up an accumulation of electrical energy.

Just as we do sometimes.

And it has to be discharged somehow,

To clear the atmosphere.

* * *

In the evening there are low rumbles.

Mutterings.

Ominous and deep grumblings far off.

And vivid flashes lighting the sky.

And leaving it again dark.

* * *

Jagged streakings of light run from zenith to horizon.

Low twistings of flame that give some notion of the power of nature when exerted.

Rather terrifying things, giving warning of the disturbance to follow.

* * *

And the storm is still far off.

But the rumblings grow louder and the flashes more vivid and seeming nearer.

And there is perhaps a gust of wind and then come a few drops of rain from the advance guard.

* * *

Trees swish and creak and bend low in the wind.

There is a sudden rush for windows to be closed.

Doors slam and rattle.

Chickens scurry for shelter and dogs seek kennels and cattle turn their backs to the storm and drift with it to a friendly tree or hedge.

And then at last it comes.

Driving sheets of the blinding rain.

And whoever used the word "sheets" to describe a torrential rainfall knew what he was talking about.

Sheets of rain, and grumblings and rumblings and roarings of thunder and blinding streaks and flashes of lightning.

* * *

From the intense heat there follows a coolness and moist freshness that is delightful, notwithstanding the angry elements.

Splash and drip and spatter, and the rain drives against the side of the house, and drips in frothy streams from the eaves and gutters.

* * *

Cats howl at the lightnings and telephone bells jangle and the air is full of snap and crack and sparkle and glitter.

A great peal of thunder and a vivid flash of lightning come almost simultaneously and in the field or pasture or along the lane a stout and lordly old tree lies splintered and broken and prostrate.

* * *

The corn in the rows seems beaten almost to the ground.

The furrows between run full with muddy streams.

With each peal and flash the rain falls faster and harder.

* * *

And then, after a time, the rumblings grow less ominous and fainter and die away to only occasional mutterings.

The lightnings are less frequent and not so vivid.

The rain falls in less volume and there are only occasional showers and then just some scattered drops.

* * *

The storm is over.

The air is cool and fresh and fragrant.

Everything seems to have been cooled and cleansed and refreshed.

The great pall of heat has been stripped from the earth.

The storm has cleared the atmosphere.

* * *

And often in life and work, there is need of a storm to clear the atmosphere.

To cleanse the air about.

To refresh and make cool and let us exhaust stored irritability and lightning and sound and fury.

* * *

Ever seen a real thunderstorm?

Ever been one?

WHY THE DRESS SUIT?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

You may have wondered why the dress suit.

Take it by and large, disinterestedly, with a judgment purged of tradition and custom, and looking at the thing from the standpoint of comeliness, as you would look at a dog, a horse or the Venus de Milo, the dress suit is a curious and amazing spectacle. It is the last word in intrinsic ugliness.

It is to clothes what the camel is to animals, the hansom cab to vehicles, and the bustle to feminine apparel.

You ask why it was devised. It is not comfortable. It certainly is not artistic.

But it has a reason, a very good and sufficient reason.

That is, it had one once; for we keep on doing most things not for existing reasons, but controlled by the ghosts of dead reasons.

Every outward thing is but the symbol of an inward idea.

Once there was an idea in the world, it still lingers in spots, like snow in the fence corners in April, an idea of a gentleman.

A gentleman was supposed to be a male human being who never by any possibility did any useful work, especially with his hands.

And he was the nobler gentleman in proportion to the distance he had to go back in his pedigree to find a worker that sweat.

This being the general opinion, that a gentleman was a man who did no work, he dressed so he couldn't work.

Hence the dress suit.

The stiff white cuffs at your wrist show by their spotlessness that you have not carried in an armful of wood for the kitchen stove nor helped ma put up fruit.

The iron-like white collar about your throat shows that you never perspired with your distinguished and honorable neck.

And the slab of white boiler plate down your chest, your immaculate shirt front, is evidence that you have not bent your aristocratic back, say in chopping wood or grubbing potatoes.

People keep on wearing full dress for the simple reason that the uppity portion of mankind is much more concerned to do what they all do and what always has been done than in following the processes of reason, which is painful.

Now don't break loose and go to the next party in your business suit, just to show you are independent. Save your strength for more important conflict.

And if you don't want trouble with your wife, the next time you are invited out to dinner put on your headwaiter's uniform, and look pleasant.

You'd better.

ANGRY PEDDLER'S POWDER WEAPON

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Furious because Miss Rebecca Peck, 21 years old, refused to buy his wares, an Armenian lace peddler threw a poisonous powder in her eyes and fled.

Miss Marion Bridgeman of Niagara Falls, a guest in the Peck home, called the girl's mother and a physician was summoned. Quick emergency treatment doubtless saved the girl's sight, but her face is badly burned and her sight will be affected for some time. Chemists who analyzed the powder dashed in Miss Peck's face say it is composed of cayenne pepper, carbolic acid, insect powder and a substance not yet identified.

An hour later the same peddler, angered because a woman would not open the door and examine his wares, thrust his fist through the window and then ran away.

BILL HART VISITS HORSES ON LOOP

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—William S. Hart is on speaking terms with all the beautiful horses owned by the downtown mounted police squad. Whenever Bill visits Chicago he makes a tour of the loop and visits these horses, all of whom know him. Today he was dressed more like a conservative banker than a Wild West actor. He is on his way to New York. About the Arbuckle case, he said:

"I don't want to judge Arbuckle. It is a ghastly thing and I feel sorry for him. People are talking about this leading to a cleaning up in Hollywood. There is nothing to clean up. Most motion picture workers are hard-working, decent men and women. They work 12 to 15 hours a day and have no time for gay parties. I can't tell you what happened at these parties, because I never attended one."

BETTY ROSS CLARK PLEASES AUDIENCE

It is always a bit of added flavor to meet the film folks face to face, and this opportunity is offered at the Palace Grand theater tonight and tomorrow night.

Miss Betty Ross Clark, who plays the part of sweetheart to Lloyd Hughes in Thomas H. Ince's drama o the year, "Monther O' Mine," appears in person as a prologue to the feature.

Her charm and ease won her many admirers last night and gave the picture a personal touch.

In honor of the mothers of today, for whom the feature holds a keen interest, white carnations were handed to all mothers as they entered the house. The foyer was appropriately decorated for the atmosphere surrounding the picture. Those who filled the house at its first night run pronounced the picture an unusual portrayal of the "mother" type.

Added attractions, including a cartoon, a spicy comedy and the usual good music, complete the variety program.

Don't be visionary. It's foolish to plant sunflower seeds to raise rainbows.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY PREPARES FOR GAIETY

Depression Prevalent During Wilson Regime Leads to Feverish Revival

DIPLOMATS ARE LIONS

Tom-Toms Beat Up Collosal Scale of Entertainments for Winter Season

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Unless all signs fail the coming Winter is going to witness the greatest social season Washington has ever had.

Houses long boarded up are having their blinders removed; the dust is being chased from corners and crevices long dark, the family plate is getting the attention of housemaids and butlers, and already the beat of the social tom-toms can be heard reverberating through the rarified air of the upper and most exclusive realms. Stomachers, dogcollars and ropes of pearls are being hauled out of the safe-deposit vaults, where they have so long reposed. Its going to be a great Winter.

Washington has been socially starved for some six or eight years now. Not since the advent of the Wilsons, back in 1913, has there been any social life in Washington worthy of the name. Not any, at least, comparable to the "good old days" of former Administrations. Mrs. Wilson was not socially inclined, neither was the President, and, to help them out, the war in Europe came along before their Administration was many months old and put the taboo on extensive entertaining.

Wilson Regime Quiet.

In 1915 the President put his foot down on the social life and pointed out that, in view of the thousands that were dying daily on the battlefields of France and the universal mourning all over Europe, it ill-behooved Washington to lend itself to lavish display.

Then America entered the war and killed off what little social life had managed to survive the White House edict. It was hoped in many quarters that Washington would get back in the whirl after the war, but President Wilson's long absences and later illnesses prevented it. So the dowagers and "cave-dwellers" boarded up their imposing residences, sent their jewels to safe-keeping and hied away to Bar Harbor, New York, Hot Springs, Palm Beach, Deanville and other places, leaving the national capital flat.

And now the sun is beginning to peep once more over the social horizon. The Wilsons are gone, the Hardings are in, the war is over; there are still odds and ends of war fortunes that have survived the attacks of the profiteers, and, what is more important than all, Washington is going to be the Capital of the World for a time this Winter, with the assembling here of the international conference on armament and Far Eastern affairs.

Lively Season Ahead.

The conference is going to be just as big in most respects as that at Paris, and much bigger in other respects. Moreover, the gloom of a frightful World War that sucked up millions of lives and caused untold suffering will not be hanging over Washington as it hung over Paris.

The world's leading statesmen are going to be here, with their retinues of sales, assistants, secretaries and associates. They must be entertained. They cannot be allowed to return to Europe with the impression that Washington is a backwoods hamlet on the edge of the prairie. And the dowagers will see to it.

There is, however, one large fly in the social swim. This will be the first real social season that Washington has ever undertaken in the absence of the familiar cocktail, highball and champagne. There are stocks reposing in many dusty cellars, it is true, but they are not extensive, and they are regarded as almost as precious as madame's dog-collar.

A great deal of reliance in overcoming this handicap is being placed in the foreign visitors and the foreigners already here. The embassies and legations can get it shipped in under diplomatic permits from the State Department. It is a pleasant thing to have a friend in an Embassy. Also, it is anticipated that the visitors will realize the delicacies of the situation and perhaps——

Small Salaries Hit.

There may be considerable groaning on the part of many hard-worked and not overly wealthy Government officials upon whom the money burdens will fall. The initial appropriation for the conference by Congress is only $200,000, and the actual expense of running the show will eat up that amount and more, it is expected.

Cabinet officers can hardly live on their salaries in normal times, with the cost of living within reasonable limits. Add a little extra entertaining to an existence that is already filled with entertainment, be it ever so quietly done, and there has to be digging into reserves. As for under officials and assistants, their salaries do not pay their servant hire.

It's going to be a heavy Winter on private pocketbooks. That is already clear.

Not all groans arising in Washington this Winter are going to be due to losses of ships and armies—some of 'em are going to come from anguished pocketbooks.

Real Estate Review

Several real estate agents when asked regarding their opinion as to whether transportation for the west and northwest sections of Glendale was needed were unanimous in their approval of the tentative solution recently offered of re-routing the Burbank car on San Fernando road to Pacific avenue then onto Gilbert street and into Burbank. The prevailing opinion among the real estate agents of the city is that such a car line would increase property values in the section served at least 10 per cent the day that a franchise for the right of way was granted. This increase in valuation would not stop there but would advance as the work of laying rails for the new line progressed.

Not only would property values be enhanced by such car service but the matter of selling real estate in that section of the city would be facilitated. The average property owner in the west and northwest sections of the city is employed in Los Angeles and commutes. A walk of one mile or even half a mile, and the greater percentage of the west section of the city is at least half a mile from the nearest carline, to and from the street car each day in addition to a day's work is a hardship for the average man. The man required to make this walk will, at the first opportunity, sell his property at a loss if necessary, and move to Los Angeles or to some location nearer to a carline.

In case the owner of the property can find some one that is willing to purchase the property, even though it is a long distance from the car line, he is willing to sell at a loss in order to get away. This willingness to sell at a loss not only deprives the city of a citizen, but tends to lower property values in the entire district. On the other hand a carline through the west side of the city would act as a magnet to attract new comers to the city and also increase the value of property in the district.

Glendale is gradually growing out to the western limits of the city and each day sees new houses started and new people moving into the houses already completed. This growth would be speeded by a large per cent , if there were sufficient means of transportation to accommodate the living in the district. One of the first question that a real estate agent is asked regarding a house, by a prospective buyer is "How far is it to the nearest carline?" If he has to answer that the nearest carline is almost a mile distant he loses a sale, and the town loses a booster.

A rumor is afloat in Glendale that the southwest corner of Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue has changed hands, the new purchaser being a party recently arrived from the East, whose name is being withheld. This property is 100 by 160 feet and the price paid, it is rumored, is $65,000. The new owner, it is said, proposes to construct a substantial business block as soon as plans can be completed.

Several months ago this property was purchased by a syndicate of local business men headed by the firm of Doner, Hemenway & Burn, the price paid at that time being reported as $45,000.

THOUSAND GIRLS IN TURKISH HAREMS

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—The allegation that at least a thousand Armenian girls who were carried off to Turkish harems were ultimately sold into white slavery throughout the world, was made in a report presented to the league of nations assembly today by Mlle. Averesco of Roumania. She was head of a committee which investigated the deportation of women and children.

Her report said it had been learned that the Turks, after carrying off the Armenian girls to their harmes, doped them with opium to weaken their will and to kill all desire to return home.

CHILDREN'S STORY HOUR SATURDAY

The children's story hour will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the public library. Miss Leone Shattuck, head of the juvenile department, will tell two very interesting stories, one of which is entitled "The Old Whale's Toothache," from "Tales to Wonderland," by Isa L. Wright. The other is "Heads or Tails," an old Jewish fairytale.

There was a good attendance last week and it is hoped that more of the children will come out and enjoy these stories. There will be several new books out at this time.

The following football schedule was adopted:

It was decided to have a lightweight league, in which no player weighing more than 130 pounds will be admitted. These games will be played on Tuesday evenings, while the heavyweight contests will be held on Thursday evenings. The above schedule will be reversed for the lightweight division.

A practice game was played this afternoon at 3:30 between teams representing the Glendale high school and the Princess Athletic club of Pasadena, which consists of old members of the Pasadena high school team. Next Tuesday evening a practice game will be played between the Glendale and the Burbank high teams.

Accused Slayed of Film Beauty Before Court

The S. R. O. (standing room only) sign was hung out in Police Judge O'Brien's court in San Francisco when Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle was arraigned on a charge of murdering Miss Virginia Rappe. MRS. CLAYTON WAS RUN DOWN BY CAR

Attempting to cross the street in front of an automobile and board a street car, a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Clayton was struck by the machine and knocked to the ground late yesterday.

According to George Eadis, 340 North Pasadena avenue, Pasadena, who was driving the machine, he was on his way to Glendale along Colorado street, and as he attempted to cross the intersection of Brand and Colorado, the Mrs. Clayton ran in front of his car in an attempt to board a street car. The bumper of the machine struck her and she fell to the ground.

Mr. Eadis claims to have been driving at a speed of between 15 and 20 miles and hour, and stopped his machine as Mrs. Clayton arose. He drove her to Glendale. The woman refused to call a doctor and requested that she be taken to her home.

WOMEN FLOCKED TO COURTROOM

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The courtroom of Judge Sylvain Lazarus, in which the Arbuckle case is being heard, was again under siege by women today.

However, the women making up the crowd today were on a different errand. One of their number had been arrested on a charge of distubing the peace in a school controversy. Her supporters packed the court room and the door had to be locked. Those outside clamored for entrance.

Here and there among the crowd was an Arbuckle trial "fan" on hand early in hopes of securing a choice seat when the preliminary hearing is resumed this afternoon.

The whisper passed around the room that this court was to be the scene of the Arbuckle hearing. A look of determination settled upon the faces of the women and it was plain to see that it would be difficult to dislodge them from their seats.

First Pictures From Famine-Stricken Russia

The camera today gives us a view of suffering Russia. You see the pathetic spectacle of famine sufferers, an emaciated mother and child, and another woman prone on the ground, weary nad half-starved. The mother is cleaning the child's head of typhus-carrying vermin with a piece of wood. News reports from the land of the soviets tells of hundreds of thousands of such scenes as this. The healthy-looking man in uniform is Leon Trotzky, Bolshevist war minister. The photograph was snapped as he was reviewing his red army in Kremlin square in August. For the first time you see "Big Bill" Hayward, American I. W. W. leader, as he appears in Russia, whence he fled to escape a 20-year term in Leavenworth prison, forfeiting his bail bond, put up by friends. Hayward wears American clothes and is shown surrounded by Bolshevists.

PICKS GLENDALE IN LOOKING FOR HOME

After a six weeks' auto trip through the Yosemite, Seattle, Portland and other northern cities from his former home in North Dakota, E. F. Heisser arrived in Glendale two weeks ago and since that time has purchased a home in this city and intends to locate here.

Mr. Heisser who was formerly a lumberman in North Dakota and the northwest, purchased the H. A. Michael home, 1119 North Louise street, through H. J. Vandenhoff and will move in at once.

According to Mr. Heisser he has looked all over the state for a desiradle city in which to make his home and until coming to Glendale had been unable to find just the city that he was looking for.

Glendale, according to Mr. Heisser is the ideal home city and as for business compared to towns of the same size in the middle west and in the north is excellent. Mr. Heisser said that Southern California is more prosperous at present than any other section of the United States.

Russia is learning the terrible lesson that decadence in agriculture and industry means hunger and economic ruin, no matter what the form of government may be.

SECOND REEL BEING SHOWN ARBUCKLE TRAGEDY TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The second reel of Roscoe Arbuckle's first appearance as a tragedian was "shot" this afternoon before another matinee audience of "women only" that promised to eclipse the record attendance yesterday.

That the defense anticipates introducing evidence in behalf of Arbuckle was indicated when Attorney Dominguez remarked to Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, member of the women's vigilante committee:

"I hope you ladies will suspend judgment in this case until all of the testimony has been brought out."

"That is our intention," she replied. "But that we exepct all of it to be brought out."

It was reported today ha Dr. Arthur Beardslee, missing physician who attended Miss Rappe the first night of her illness, had returned to the city and would be questioned today by district Attorney Brady. Inasmuch as the state has as yet called none of the physicians who attended Miss Rappe during her week's illness, it was considered probable that he would not appear at the preliminary hearing.

Search was under way today for three new witnesses. Information reached the district attorney that a man named Barroun, a woman named Lewis an another identified woman had attended Arbuckle's hotel party. Their names had not hitherto figured.

The initial session was comparatively brief,—a little over two hours, at which four witnesses were heard.

They included Dr. Shelby Strange, official autopsy surgeon; Dr. William Ophuls, who made an unofficial autopsy; Miss Grace Halston, a nurse who assisted in the autopsy performed by Dr. Ophuls and Peroy R. Hennessy, board of health employe, who certified to Miss Rappe's death.

But four salent facts were adduced in their testimony.

It was establised that Miss Rappe is dead.

That the death was due to peritonitis, following a ruptured bladder.

That the rupture was "probably due to application of an external force.

That a number of bruises found on her body and that one on her arm was, in the opinion of witnesses, superinduced by "finger pressure."

LEWIS VICTORIOUS IN FIRST TEST TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 23.—John L. Lewis was victorious in the first test of strength between "insurgents" and "conservatives" in the convention of the United Mine Workers today when the union delegates, by a viva voce vote decided overwhelmingly to buck the international president in his demand for an accounting of the expenditure of $27,000 in suppression of the Illinois "wild cat" strike.

TWO MILLIONS OF STARVING POLES RETURN HOME

By HARRY L. ROGERS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—As the little frontier town of Baranovichi, in Poland, an exiled people numbering more than two million souls is being repatriated after seven years of wandering in the fastnesses of Russia. Driven by the fear of famine and plague, and drawn by the desire for homes which many of them never expected to see again, these peasants of White Russia are swarming across the border from Soviet Russia at the rate of ten thousand a week.

Advices reaching here from the Polish receiving camp tell of facilities taxed to the utmost in the task of feeding, housing and clothing the ragged, vermin-infested horde which comes on trains, in ox-carts and on foot.

Baranovichi was not unprepared for the herculean undertaking for the Grand Duke Nicholas had his headquarters there for many months during the great war, and just outside the town proper there is a camp with accommodations for a division in another sense the place is historic, too. It was the highwater mark of the great German advance, and only a few miles beyond the deserted fields are still scarred with the trench lines which the Germans built to withstand the onslaughts of the Czar's fighting men.

"Via Dolorosa."

When the Muscovita hosts rolled back across the uplands of Lithuania and through the Pinck marshes they swept everything before them. Fields were burned, orchards felled, and the peasant-folk urged by the Cossack's knout, were driven along the with the army, in order that the conquering Germans might find no advantage in the land they occupied. Thus were hundreds of square miles laid waste and the broad highways which lead from Poland into Russia converted into rivers of pity-provoking humanity.

Now they are coming back. Under the terms of the Treaty of Riga, Soviet Russia and Poland agreed to an exchange of nationals, and since May the stream of human wreckage has flowed toward Baranovichi, it volume ever-increasing. The reservoir which feeds this stream is the entire peasant population of White Russia, carried away in the great retreat of 1915.

The Riga convention stipulated that 4,000 a week should be repatrioted through the two receiving stations of Baranovichi and Boyno, but, owing to the interruption of railway traffic in the south, the movement through Rovno has been negligible. With the pressure of famine and cholera the motley throng has increased until it has become a common occurrence for three trainloads of 3,000 each to arrive at Baranovichi within a single day.

300,000 Wait to Move.

The normal capacity of the Baranovitchi camp is 4,000, but more often than not there are 30,000 vermin-ridden unfortunates bivouaking under shelters of fir-boughs, surrounded by the precious household goods which they have preserved through all their wanderings. The number en route from Moscow at any given time is estimated at 80,000, and there are said to be reserve concentrations at all times of 300,000.

For the most part the travellers are women and children. Able-bodied young men are few and far between. Fully 50 per cent are women, while another 25 per cent are children under fifteen years of age. Most of the men are over forty, the strong young fellows having been kept by the Bolsheviki for the Red Army or the industrial cohorts of Lenine.

One gets an impression, says an observer, of the handerchiefed heads of hundreds of simple, brown-faced peasant girls, with here and there a dash of color from shawl or petticoat, and here and there the grave, bearded face of some village patriarch. There is also a strong percentage of the little Jew trader, who, in Poland and Western Russian, forms the economic link between the peasant and the outside world. They squat about the earth, old men chipping with an ax at some home-made wooden tool, old women rocking cradles or crouching over their crocks; small girls performing sisterly duties for smaller brothers by picking over their hair for vermin, like so many little monkeys.

Exodus from Samara.

Considering that these people have been wanderers since 1915 and that many of them have journeyed from the farthest corners of Russia, it is extraordinary what quantities of goods they have with them You may come across a man whose sole worldly possessions consist of a hammer, but the average family has nearly half a ton of implements. There are enormous bundles, with contents varied and mysterious; here a sack of dried mushrooms, there a bag of coarse rock-salt gathered in Samara, a thousand miles away; painted wooden chests, with iron clasps; bedsteads, chairs; babies in wooden cradles slung from three poles; handlooms with balls of gray yarn; strips of birchbark for making sandals, and rough wooden trolleys, on which the robuster members of the family painfully transport the whole from one resting place to another.

These people speak the White Russian dialect, a quaint mixture of Russian and Polish. All their talk is of the great famine. From Moscow westward, they say, the crops are fair, but to the east and southeast things are bad, very bad. Many of them having come from Saratoff and Samara, the center of the famine area.

"What does bread cost there?"

"Bread? Ah, bread, prosche Pana, bread there is none! Grass is what we ate—grass, sawdust and a very little flour. Since the Winter there has been no rain; there are cracks in the ground so large that you can put your hand into them. The people are going away to Siberia, those that have the strength, but very many will die this Winter. Ah, it is very bad with Russia now!"

Relief Works Wonders.

The percentage of pestilence at Baranovitchi had been surprisingly low, considering the unsanitary conditions prevailing. Under the quarantine regulations the newcomers are obliged to remain at least five days. During this period the sanitary officials, the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A. and other American relief societies work wonders with the wayfarers.

They are inspected, deloused, fed, bathed, clothed, and the children soon leave off lice-picking to join in games and sports. When the period of detention is over they are placed on trains destined to the stations nearest their former homes, many of which have scarcely one stick standing upon another.

While many of the families will undoubtedly live through the Winter without charitable assistance and prosper in the future, others certainly will fare so badly as to become a charge upon the Polish Government.

NEW CITY ATTORNEY

BERT P. WOODARD

Bert T. Woodard was appointed city attorney by the city council last night to fill the office made vacant by Hartley Shaw.

Bert P. Woodward is a native of Tennessee, with the quizzical smile and a sense of humor that marked the fighting Tennessee lawyer.

He is married, has one child and has lived in Glendale since 1912. He has a vigorously growing practice in commercial law in Los Angeles.

To Devote Time to City

"I will devote all the time to the city that the city will require," he said yesterday; "but of course it would be out of the question for me to give up my whole practice in this connection."

Born in Tennessee

The new city attorney of Glendale, was born at Fayetteville, Tenn., and graduated at the Cumberland Law School of Lebanon, Tenn., in 1901.

W. T. Craig's Comment

When he was known to be a candidate for the office of City Attorney of Glendale, W. T. Craig, his former of Glendale, Mr. Craig, his former associate, in a communication to Mayor Robinson and the City Councilmen commented upon his ability.

"I have known Mr. Woodard for nearly ten years," he wrote, "during five years of that time, he was associated with me.

"Mr. Woodard is one of the squarest, most loyal, most conscientious and agreeable men with whom I have ever came into contact. Mr. Woodard is an able lawyer, perfectly capable of handling any of the legal affairs of your city. In fact he possesses every qualification to make an ideal city attorney."

The Woodards are at home at 214 North Maryland street.

UP TO PARENTS TO HAVE GOOD SCHOOLS

Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, declared that parents are responsible for good or bad schools, the instructors and boards of education being merely the agents to carry out the will of the voters, at the meeting yesterday of the Columbus Avenue P.-T. Association. He also showed that the expense to the average householder of the proposd school bond issue of $260,000, if it carries, will be insignificant.

Mrs. C. H. Thompson, president, gave a word of greeting to new and old members and called upon the treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Searles, who reported funds totalling $17.10. A little later in the session announcement was made of a card party to be held at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, Hallowe'en afternoon, October 31, as a treasury benefit.

Mrs. John Robert White, president of the Federation of Parent-Teachers' Association, spoke briefly on the value of co-operation and what such a spirit between parents and teachers means to the schols.

Mrs. C. H. Pendleton interpreted most beautifully as a piano solo the familiar prelude by Rachmanioff, and for an encore number played the contrasting "Aragonaise" by Massenet.

The president announced additional committee chairmen as follows: Membership, Mrs. H. Miller; education, Miss Lorrainee Mitchell; patriotism, Mrs. C. L. Peckham; visiting, Mrs. Johnson; publicity, Mrs. E. L. Young; Playground, Miss Berry.

In closing she pledged herself and her association to work for the bond issue.

'HI Y' GROUPS MEET WITH THEIR LEADERS

The banquet at the First Methodist church last night, which marked the beginning of the year's work in Hi-Y groups, was attended by about 50 boys and their leaders, and developed much enthusiasm.

The menu was furnished by the boys, who brought the cooked food, and was served by the young lady members of the Philathea class of the Sunday school.

The chief business transacted was the election of officers of the Hi-Y club, as follows:

Dale Wood, president; Arlon McCormick, vice-president; Paul Edmonds, secretary-treasurer.

President Wood acted as toastmaster and introduced Assistant Coach Howard L. Butterfield, who told of his experience as a member of a Hi-Y club in student days. His advice to the boys was to live up to their ideals and be true to Hi-Y standards.

W. A. Horn told of interesting experiences, and reminded the boys that they are "building the future homes of our city."

Dr. Clyde M. Crist closed the talks with an endeavor to make the boys realize the great power of the Hi-y, if properly directed.

Special guests of the evening was a group of boys from the Seventh-Day Adventist school, accompanied by Principal Max Hill, whose cooperation is sought in the work the club is doing. To these boys President Wood made a little speech of greeting.

Leaders in the work who were present were Secretary Rex Kelley, G Edwin Murphy, Harry Marple, P. L. Hatch and O. L. Howard. The boys of G. Edwin Murphy's group challenged other groups to games, which were played during the social hour which closed the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Faries of 408 North Louise street left yesterday morning for San Diego, on a business trip, to return Saturday.

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die"
JUDGE RUTHERFORD

W. R. MITCHELL

"MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE."

In less than a year this proclamation has found its way into thirty languages and the message is being heralded to millions of people in thousands of cities in every land of the earth. "MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE." Who ever heard of such a thing. Preposterous you will say. So said the scoffers to Noah; they had never seen rain—but the flood came on time.

"Millions now living will never die," but will enjoy unending human life on the earth and ascend a highway of righteousness to full protection of body, of mind, of character, in company with their loved ones returned from the grave. When the kingdom of God is fully established mankind will have no more fear of sickness or accident, old age or death; no more dread of loss of home, or loved ones or livelihood; no more sorrow or tears.

"MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE."

You may be one of them. Go! Hear the proof of these most marvelous tidings. Testimony upon testimony, evidence upon evidence, Biblical, historical, scientific—appealing to your reason as well as your heart—will be presented without cost in these two lectures.

Surplus English Women Say They "Hate Men"

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The problem of England's "surplus" women, which has been causing much concern since the toll of war was revealed, has been increasing in the public interest by publication of the 1921 census figures.

"Two million surplus women—what shall be done with them?" has been the general theme of the printed and spoken discussion of the problem.

The census, however, revealed that this was a popular round number, and the actual excess of females over males is one and three-quarters. The pre-war figures revealed a disproportionment of a million and a quarter. Hence it is proved that the problem of "surplus" womankind has only been increased by half a million, or, in other words, by the number of men who gave their lives in the great war.

Nature is correcting this inequality herself, experts point out, as the latest birthrate figures show a marked increase in the plurality" which boys register over the girl birthrate. The anonymous author of "Women Adrift" contributing to the press discussion, points out that building the empire, fighting for the empire and undertaking its more hazardous occupations has caused the discrepancy in numbers.

"Nature sees that there shall be a Jack for every Jill," she writes, "for she starts with a male balance that would cover all this extra wastage, if only one thing were done to keep the balance straight—and that one thing is that a more competent motherhood would keep the boy babies alive, for mortality among males, the male surplus disappears within the first five or seven years."

Resent "Surplus" Term

The writer strikes out strongly against the dominant note of previous discussion, which has been that the solution, from the point of view of women, is that all girls be trained for vocations other than motherhood and home-making so that they may have an interest in life and live fully in the event that they are not selected for marriage. Such a procedure, the author of "Women Adrift" argues, would only make women less attractive and increase the number of men who remain bachelors.

The "surplus" woman herself has not rested passive under so much pro-ing and con-ing. She has spoken with no uncertain voice against being put under a microscope for public analysis. She denies the allegation, in fact.

So many letters of protest against the discussion were written by girls and women that two or three of the newspapers finally ran them in job lots, a daily feature for several days.

The denials of "surplosity" have made helpful reading for men folk. The general tone of the letters has been that the writer doesn't feel herself to be "surplus" in any way, she's having a perfectly good time with life, she has interests, and all manner of things. She cites bicycles, kodaks, flowers, fields, scenery, chums, cows, dogs—as filling her life fully and satisfactorily, and no need for men.

The controversy has produced an exceedingly human set of documents, but the writer who wins the interest and good wishes of all readers is the girl who writes that she has decided, after grave consideration, to solve her own problem by mating with one of the war's victims, a man blinded in battle.

GOLD BRICKS IN CHICAGO AGAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Gold bricks were once the "lorelei" of bewhiskered gentlemen from the "sticks."

But Joseph Cacacvallo knew nothing of precedent. He tried to sell two to a Halstead street pawnbroker. At least, Abe Stein, the broker, who had Caccavallo arrested, said the youth asked $400 for the pair.

"I bought the bricks from a young man on the south side," Caccavallo told Judge Jacobs. "I only wanted them priced." The judge freed the youth but confiscated the bricks.

NOVEL DINNER-PARTY AT YOUNG HOME

A very novel dinner party was given last night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Young, when they entertained at a venison dinner. The affair was a cover-dish party, each couple bringing a covered dish. Numbers were pasted on the dishes and three of the men were sent to the kitchen to draw numbers. Regardless of what the dishes contained they were brought in and served. When their contents were eaten, three more were brought in, and this was continued until all were gone.

Dr. Young officiated at the skillet, frying the venison, and he made a very fine work of it.

During the evening entertainers came in and several piano selections were rendered by Miss Lillian Yoe. Miss Taylor gave a fancy dance, and solos were given by several of the guests, including Blake Franklin, Harry McBain and George Lyons. Mrs. Max Green gave two very entertaining readings, and later in the evening dancing was enjoyed and several old-fashioned games were played, as well as an "elopement" party.

The guests included Dr. and Mrs. E. Leslie Eames, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Max Green, Mr. and Mrs. George Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McBain, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCartney, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nelson, Dr. and Mrs. Linc Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry St. Clair, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Berry, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Baird, Miss Margaret Cross, Miss Lucile Tholen, Mr. Knickerbocker and Harry Reaves.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY MEETS

The young people's society of the Tropico Presbyterian church held a monthly business meeting Wednesday night. Reports of committees were read and showed that the work had been carried on very satisfactorily during the summer, and well-planned for the fall.

It was decided that the society will enter the "four square" contest with the other societies of the district, and Walter Sullivan was chosen contest manager.

Next Sunday evening the Christian Endeavorers will meet at the Tropico public library at 5 o'clock and hold their meeting on the Tropico hills, with Frances Goldsborough as leader.

After the business meeting adjourned the young people stayed for the prayer meeting, which was lead by Mrs. H. S. Wilcox, who used an especially appropriate topic for young people: "Jesus, Our Head Coach."

THEATRE PARTY FOR MISS LOGAN

Miss Alice Gray Beach was hostess Wednesday evening at a theater party and shower in honor of Miss Mary Logan, who is soon to become the bride of Marshall Pearson. The party motored to Los Angeles where they attended the Orpheum.

After the theater they stopped at the Pig-n'-Whistle where a booth had been reserved. At Miss Logan's place was a large package, which contained numerous aprons.

Miss Beach's guests included Mrs. Noble Ripley, Mrs. Wayne Smith, Miss Lilca Webster, Miss Jane Snyder, Misses Clara and Marion Pearson, and the guest of honor Miss Mary Logan.

SILVER WEDDING AT THE BEERE HOME

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Luster at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

OF AN INVENTOR!

AT THE BARNES SHUCK MUSIC COMPANY, of 211 North Brand boulevard, you may see and hear that marvelous reproducing piano the—Ampico! The development of the Ampico has been the life work of its inventor Charles Fuller Stoddard. While still a boy, music and scientific matters had an absorbing interest for him, and many of the hours usually devoted by boys to play, were occupied in singing, (for he had a beautiful soprano voice and sang in a boy choir in Chicago, his native city), and in studying mechanical devices of all kinds. About25 years ago, he heard About twenty-five years ago, he heard for the first time a player piano, then in the first stages of its development, and seeing at once its great possibilities, and the wonderful future for such a means of producing music, determined some time to invent a piano that should play as well or better than the great pianists. His love for music was the incentive to the accomplishment of the difficult task which he set for himself! There were years of effort, trials and disappointment, but at last an instrument was made, which made it possible to reproduce the minutest shades and variations of an artist's playing! Thus, the Ampico is capable of producing any degree of intensity desired. Mr. Stoddard's devotion to the ideal which he set for himself so many years ago, is now being richly rewarded in the appreciation of his Ampico, which has astonished amateurs and artists alike, and which is acknowledged to be supreme in the field of reproducing music by scientific means! At the Barnes Shuck Music Company, you may hear this magical instrument in the wonderful Knabe piano, skillfully combining the marvelous mechanical science of the Ampico with the exquisite tonal beauty of the Knabe—the World's Greatest Piano!

THESE YOU SHOULD CONSIDER!

IN A VACUUM CLEANER there are a number of vital things that mean much in the ease and thoroughness with which you can clean your house! It must really clean without scattering dust in the rooms, yet, it must also have a suction powerful enough to draw dirt right through the carpet if necessary! Then, too, it must pick up lint, threads, hairs, etc. without injuring the rug or carpet! If the brush acts as a lawn mower on the rug it is far too expensive to take even as a gift. A really satisfactory cleaner must be so constructed that you can push it under the average table, divan, bed or bureau, and save you moving furniture! If the cleaning nozzle is awkward in shape, or if the ends are blocked off with wheels, corners will have to be left dirty! You will find that the cleaners which WASHER WILSON of 140 South Brand boulevard carries have all of these important features and many, many more! They have attachments for cleaning everything, for you must bear in mind that the floor is not the only thing to be cleaned! Indeed, not, there are portieres, upholstered furniture, walls, beds, etc. And the attachments are easily fitted on and easily removed! And, then, they are light in weight—which is really most important, for you know it isn't going to be much fun carrying a cleaner that weighs a young ton up and down stairs! WASHER WILSON is conducting a special sale on the four cleaners that embody all of these features—the Ohio, America, Eureka and Sweeper Vac! The prices vary considerably, but they are all admirable cleaners—machines that will give you service and satisfaction for years to come. Stop in at Washer Wilson's and look them over—he'll be glad to give you a demonstration!

Despite her heroic work as a Red Cross nurse in the war, Miss Stella Grabowiecki has had to submit to many difficulties in her effort to land in this country. She has finally succeeded. Miss Grabowiecki came several days ago to the United States, giving the name of her brother, Frank Grabowiecki, as the nearest relative. He served in the war with the A. E. F. Unfortunately, he lost his naturalization and discharge papers. He was therefore technically held to be not a citizen. Fortunately, he has been able to present ample evidence, even though the papers have been lost, that he is a citizen and a war veteran. His sister's admittance automatically followed.

HOW SERAJEVO TRADEGY WAS TOLD THE KAISER

Jules Cambon Tells for First Time the Dramatic Incident of the Admiral's Cigarette Case Tossed Aboard Yacht of Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm at Kiel Regatta

(NOTE—Scribbled on a little note crammed into a cigarette case which was then flung high through the air from the bridge of a little launch to the deck of the imperial racing yacht; all this in the midst of the pomp and splendor of the famous annual regatta in Kiel Harbor; thus was conveyed to th Kaiser the first news of the assassination at Sarajevo which was the spark that set the world aflame seven years ago! It is told here for the first time on this side of the Atlantic, together with other hitherto unknown pre-war events. The story is a chapter from the memoirs of Jules Cambon, published in the Revue de France).

PARIS, Sept. 23.—One day I called on Secretary of State (for Foreign Affairs) von Kiderlen-Waechter. With all his faults he had a certain urge for honesty, sometimes displaying even a somewhat brutal frankness; among all the Germans with whom I had official dealings there was scarcely another with whom, generally speaking, I got along so well.

One day, talking to him eye to eye, I said:

"What kind of a devil was it that drove you (Germany) into the Agadir affair? Why did you do it? What was the motive and what did it get you? It gravely compromised the relations between our two countries, almost caused a war, inflamed the nationalistic feeling in France to the exploding point, aroused suspicion in England and even sowed the seed of hostility there—and the result of it all? Even here (Berlin) public opinion is raging against you. Germany considers itself humiliated and is convinced that it has sustained a diplomatic reverse. Why did you send that warships to Agadir?"

He reflected for a few moments, then said:

"I shall answer your questions quite frankly. Last Spring our Crown Prince was in England, for hunting. You know how the English are—how they interpret the duties of hospitality, how they captivate and charm a guest. The whole visit of the Crown Prince was one big feast. Politicians, ministers, society people, the most elegant women—particularly the latter—vied for the honor to be introduced to him and to be invited to his receptions.

Short-Sighted Hopes

"All the speeches he heard fairly oozed with sympathy with and flattery for Germany. All these tributes, feats and eulogies literally turned his head. He took everything on its face value and returned to Berlin with the conviction that no other prince or sovereign was as popular in England as he himself, that the majority of Britons loved Germany dearly, that England was ever ready to help her, and that France could never hope, in the event of a conflict with Germany, to be assisted by England.

"All this he told the Kaiser, heavily underlining every detail, of course. Well, there you are at the very bottom of the Agadir affair."

It has never been accurately told how the Kaiser learned of the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Serajevo. It was told to me a few days afterward by one who was present at the memorable scene.

The Kaiser was on his yacht, which he had entered in the Kiel regatta. He was, as usual, busy, excited; he gave orders and personally directed the boat manoeuvers. Suddenly a little launch appeared, making straight for the yacht at full speed; she signalled that she wanted to say something to the imperial craft. The Kaiser tried to wave her off with an imperious gesture. The launch, ignoring this, steamed nearer.

Only a few feet separated her from the racing yacht when Admiral Mueller, standing beside the pilot, signalled by pantomime that he had something to deliver. He held a piece of paper high in the air and then placed it ostentatiously in his cigarette case and dexterously threw it upon the deck of the imperial yacht. A sailor picked it up and took it to the Kaiser.

Wilhelm opened the cigarette case, pulled out the crumpled-up telegram, unfolded it, grew pale, let it drop, and merely said:

"Now I must begin all over again!"

Then he gave orders to turn and abandoned the regatta.

SCHOONER HELEN IS IN HARD LUCK

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The captain and crew of the Canadian fishing schooner Helen McLain have decided they are on the champion hard-luck ship of the North Atlantic.

The ship, commanded by Captain Fred McLain, reached Boston and docked at the fishing pier, with seventy-seven big swordfish in her hold, valued at well over $4,000.

Then it was discovered that the privilege given in war times, which allowed Canadian fishing vessels to land their catches direct at United States ports, had been revoked on July 15. The men were informed they could not sell their haul in this country, and it will spoil before they can reach a Canadian or British port.

Collector of Port Lufkin telegraphed to Washington for special permission for the ship, since it has been at sea over a month and had no way of knowing that the privilege had been rescinded.

POLITE ROBERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—They have found the "most polite" bandits in the world. Three armed men who held up Edwin Burns taking his $300 ring and $50 in cash, left him with this salutation: "Sorry to have bothered you; thank you very much."

NAVY BACKFIELD IS TEAM'S STRENGTH THIS SEASON

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 22.—Confidence in the strength of the Naval Academy football team for the coming season is based largely on the remarkable array of backfied talent which is available. A stiff, hard-fighting line has been quite the usual thing at Annapolis for a good many years, and occasionally there has been a great back, like Douglas or Dalton, but never has there been such a large number of really high-grade backs as there are now on hand.

The squad did not lose a regular from its backfield of last year, and but one or two of the substitutes. Several of the old men are expected to reach a high standard this season, and all are likely to show improvement. Then there is a big new class, with a lot of ambitious and active youths, and there is little doubt that it will yield something.

The backfield which started against the Military Academy last year was made up of Koehler, Conroy, McKee and Hamilton. Noyes, Rawlings, Cruise and Barchet compose another combination which is probably just as strong. Other good men who are still available are Matthews, Taylor, Walker, Mills and Cullen.

Koehler, on account of his experience and cleverness, is probably the most valuable of the backs, if not the most brilliant. He is playing on the varsity for his fourth season. Koehler does not get clear of the secondary defense for a long run, but he is remarkable for his abality to use every small opening for a very substantial gain. Along the line he has hardly an equal.

Many persons here are looking to Noyes and Conroy to develop real brilliancy in running with the ball. Noyes played in most of the Princeton and Army games last year and was the Navy's most brilliant performer. He is heavier and stronger this year and should have a good season. Conroy has plenty of speed and weight and has every mark of a fine running half.

Strength Lies In Backfield

McKee and Hamilton, though they made places last year and performed well, will have to work hard to hold their places this season. McKee is a good running back and good interferer, while Hamilton, a big, strong lad, is a hard line hitter and excellent defensive player. They will have Noyes, Rawlings, Cruise and Barchet as their rivals for regular places in the backfield.

The outlook is for one of the most powerful lines of recent years, as there are several veterans and an abundance of powerful fellows from last year's second eleven and from the new class. The Navy's greatest strength will lie this year, however, in the best backfield material it has ever had, and in this particular it is felt that it is in better shape that any other college in the east.

ABE'S BODYGUARD NOW READY TO DIE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Major Junius Thomas Turner, veteran of four wars, who commanded a bodyguard which escorted President Lincoln from the White House to the Soldiers' Home here, is 95 years old and ready to die.

"I am drawing to the close of my career," the major remarked casually on his 95th birthday anniversary. "I have no qualms about death. As a matter of fact, I'm perfectly indifferent about the whole thing—don't care whether I'm living or dead—but I wouldn't commite suicide."

Major Turner's first visit to Washington was during the admisistration of Andrew Jackson, and he remained in the Capital long enough to witness the inauguration of Martin Van Buren. Washington was a dirty little city, sunk in a mud hole in those days, and the major wonders sometimes at the transformation that has taken place in the span of his own life.

The major's record of active partipation in four wars is believed by him to be unequalled. He served in the Mexican War, 1846-38; the Rogue River, Oregon Indian War, 1853; Confederate tribes of Oregon and Washington Indian War, 1855-56, and the Civil War. He was awarded the title of colonel for his bravery in the Civil War, but has never assumed the rank.

"I'd rather be a major I won that rank," he explains.

When Major Turner served as commander of President Lincoln's bodyguard, he became acquainted with Brady, the famous Civil War photographer. Brady gave him a photograph of Lincoln, and when the President's carriage drove up, Turner asked the Executive to autograph the picture, which Lincoln did.

The photograph now hangs in the headquarters of Grant Post, G. A. R., in Washington.

LINEBERGER SAYS HE IS NOT SACRED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Somebody is trying to make it appear that Congressman Lineberger's colleagues in Congress are gunning for his political scalp. The persistency of the yarn, in the Ninth Congressional district, is piling his desk high with telegrams and letters, and it looks like some disgruntled and defeated politician in the Ninth district, outside of the Republican party, is strewing tacks in front of the Republican automobile.

"I can scarcely understand who would start such a mare's nest in my district," said Congressman Lineberger tonight, "unless it was some mischief-maker with a little knowledge for legislation and a capacity for misstatement of facts.

"Telegrams from different parts of the district advise me that these exaggerated reports have been industriously circulated, and all that I can say is that my first, last and only duty now is to my constituents, and I will not disappoint them."

JAPANESE DIPLOMAT DISTRUSTFUL OF U. S. ARMY POST

By DUKE N. PARRY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKIO, Sept. 23.—Claims that the United States is maintaining a larger garrison in the Hawaiian Islands than is necessary and that American soldiers there are not necessary were made in a letter written by Mr. Takeo Tanaka, member of the Japanese Imperial Diet, who recentiy made a tour through the principal cities of the United States. Mr. Tanaka's letter, published recently in the Tokio Jiji Shimpo, is written from New York City to his friend, "Mr. Y," in Tokio. Hawaii, say Mr. Tanaka, has become a camp for soldiers. Sugar plantations, according to his observations, are serving chiefly today as sites for new barracks. Mr. Tanaka says that he understands the garrison of 10,000 men is kept there as a precautionary measure to guard against the Japanese residents there. His letter, the result of observations made while Mr. Tanaka, with other members of the Diet party, was en route to the United States, follows:

"Yankee Defective."

"My Dear 'Y.':

"How are you? There is no chance on the whole to be noted in America save that, compared with the country of five years ago, it has taken on a very militaristic appearance. As soon as we landed at Honolulu, we noted a great number of soldiers. We learned that in that town alone there were 10,000 soldiers. For 10,00 soldiers to be quartered in that small, saucer-like place seems to have become a problem even to America. I was told, to be sure, that the Japanese are in the majority there. But, if any rate, it seems to be the common view that it is a foolish thing to keep so many soldiers in Hawaii.

"Moreover, these soldiers occasionally annoy the daughters of respectable families in the islands, thus increasing the problem. The remarks of the Japanese in connection with this are interesting indeed. We would rather have more of these soldiers,' they say. 'You see, Mr. Tanaka, in erecting these barracks and in other work, Japanese labor is needed. If the soldiers continue to come we can do more business in selling things here.'

I wish you would study these ironical and yet logical remarks of the Japanese in the islands. Before the labor power and essential strength of our countrymen the authority and influence of America are powerless at present unless America succeeds in drinving the Japanese altogether away from the islands. Hawaii has been built up by the strength of Japanese. Let America build barracks there as fast as she wants, let her increase the soldiers there, let her invest her money in repairing Pearl Harbor and building docks. In reality all these undertakings serve only to fill the coffers of Americans who are keen in their business deals.

"What an interesting picture indeed, that the Americans who are opposed to such enterprises do not grumble at such a state of things! If this were in Japan certainly such matters would cause political trouble. Indeed, the Yankees are defective in some ways, but what a great nation they are."

SIX-YEAR-OLD IS TAKEN FROM YARD

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 23.—Assistance of officers up and down the coast has been asked by the local police following the kidnapping of Irene Powell, age 6, Monday afternoon. The girl was a ward of the juvenile court here, and she was abducted from the yard of the home in which she had been placed.

Local courts were to have determined today whether Irene should go into the custody of her father, S. L. Powell, or of her mother, Mrs. J. D. Bennett, who lives in Lewis county. The father was released from the Federal penitentiary on McNeil Island Saturday, after serving sentence of 21 months for fradulent sale of railway tickets in Southern California. Police are searching for Powell.

Uneasy lies the face that wears a frown.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat, Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water dring which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Sell Home—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Babcock of 719 South Maryland avenue have recently sold their home to Mr. and Mrs. Wells Waring of Montclair, N. J. They expect to move up on North Sixth street, where they have purchased a new home.

Eggs All Sold—At a small poultry ranch on West Doran street efficiency and politeness are wonderfully combined in a printed placard, evidently prepared for periods when the hens go on a strike, which reads: "Sorry. Eggs all sold. Please call again."

Cross Country—Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Beere and family of St. Paul, accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Howard of Long Beach, motored across country from St. Paul, Minn., via Yellowstone National Park, to Glendale. They will make their home here. They are temporarily located at 613 South Glendale avenue.

Long Auto Trip—Mrs. Beauchamp and two sons, George and Wendell, have returned from a four months' trip to Alva, Okla. Their return trip was a record one, taking them a little over eight days to drive through. Mrs. Beauchamp stated that they returned with the same tires they started with and that the entire trip cost them between $55 and $60. They were glad to get back to Glendale and are expecting friends to come out from Alva to make their home here.

FIRST BAPTISTS IN RALLY SESSION

This is rally week at the First Baptist church. An elaborate booster program is being carried out, all of the sessions thus far being well attended. The program is as follows:

Sunday (September 18)—Morning sermon by Dr. F. G. Davies, state director of promotion.

Monday—Meetings of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school. Dr. J. D. Springston, state director of religious work, delivered the principal address.

Tuesday—Meeting of the advisory board of the church, at which a new constitution for the church was adopted. The financial budget for the coming year was brought up and considered and the program of the church for the coming year was discussed.

Wednesday—Rally prayer meeting at which nearly 200 persons were present.

Thursday—All those who assist in the musical features of the church met at that time.

Friday—B. Y. P. U. rally in all departments.

Sunday (September 25)—Grand rally in all departments. A big effort is being made to bring the enrollment in the Sunday school for this event up to 400. The Tri Mu class is working for 100 members.

THE LITTLE BROTHER

More than half way, Brother, more than half way!
Don't let your anger last over the day.
I know he hurt you, and hot tears may dim
Your eyes but perhaps, Brother, you have hurt him.
There may be some of the quarrel I missed
But give him your hand, Brother—no, not your fist!
Bygones are bygones! Go meet him, I say,
More than half way, Brother, more than half way.

There! Let me dust off your coat and your cap,
You, little bantam, come sit in my lap.
Let's dry those flowing tears,—I know they're hot
I know what tears are for I've shed a whole lot.
We won't attempt to say whose was the wrong,
We won't let anger stay overly long;
Let him be stiff-necked and distant, I say,
Go to him, Brother—yes, more than half way!

Yes, boys may hurt you—and men may hurt, too,
We can't quite fathom all things they may do;
Fate may strike hard blows and chance knock you down,
Sad days may come to you, fortune may frown.
But don't you be stiff-necked and grumble and pout,
Get in the fight, Brother, have it all out,
And when it's over, don't sulk all the day,
Meet the world, Brother—yes, more than half way!

MANY RESIDENTS WILL NOT BALLOT

In discussing the possible vote at the coming election, October 11, to vote on a bond issue of $260,000 for school purposes, Superintendent Richardson D. White mentioned the unfortunate fact that many voters will be debarred from casting a ballot by reason of the fact that they are so new in the city as not to have registered.

To be a qualified voter, one must have been a resident of the state for one year, of the county three months and a resident of the precinct 30 days. It is now too late to register for this election.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING OCTOBER 6

Members of Glendae Parent-Teacher associations will be interested to know that a conference of the first district will be held October 6 in Garfield hall of the Walker auditorium, in Los Angeles, from 10 to 4 o'clock, to discuss matters of common interest.

Glendale will figure prominently in the afternoon program, when community singing will be led by Earl Meeker, of Glendale High music department; Mrs. H. R. Darling will sing, and Mrs. P. S. McNutt will conduct a parliamentary drill.

Legion News

James F. McBryde, new elected adjutant of Glendale Post 127 American Legion mailed announcements to all members of the post today announcing that in addition to the regular business meeting of the post, which will last only 30 minutes a snappy program filled with "jazz" and "pep" has been arranged for tonight.

City Manager Reeves, who is a member of the Legion will address the post. Hugh Faxon has a repertoire of humor all fixed and ready to put across for the boys. This number promises to be one of the snappiest on the program.

The modern gipsy, who has travelled more than five thousand miles along the Pacific Coast this summer will offer entertainment that has never been put across in Glendale before. Frank H. Vesper may be on hand to give a short talk on his recent trip to Alaska. In addition to all of these features on the program four candidates will be initiated. All members of the post that have a candidate in view are asked to bring them along tonight to be initiated with the four already on the list.

Enemies are valuable at times, but friends are valuable all the time.

NEW DANCE STEPS ARE NOW TODDLES

CLEVELAND, Ohio., Sept. 23.—"Toddle: to walk with short, tottering steps, as a child." Thus does Noah Webster define the "freak" dance which has set the reformers of the country agog.

Noah's definition certainly sounds innocent enough. But in the vocabulary of the reformer the word "toddle" is synonomous with such depressing expressions as :immoral, vulgar and disgraceful.

Jazz music is the root of the toddle evil, a well-known character dancing master claims. He shakes his head and sighs for the good old days of Sousa two-steps and Strauss waltzes.

"Dancing today has become a lost art," he deplores. Dancing masters and dance hall proprietors join in the chorus.

In a dear-me-what-is-this-world-coming-to tone, the reformers whisper to you about the "corset check room" and other unmentionable and dismal things that are bringing about the downfall of this generation.

Therefore they cry "Unclean," and set about the work of seeing to it that the toddlers cease to toddle.

Maybe they're right. It may be wrong. At any rate, the proprietors of dance halls in many Ohio cities have issued the edict: "The toddle shall not be tolerated."

University and college faculties have drawn up strict rules concerning "freak" and "close" dancing.

Do the toddlers list to this din around them? Not to any noticeable extent. And, while the saxophone whines the latest syncopations of Gene Buck, Bud de Sylva and the rest, the young things continue to startle the "conscientious objectors" by improvising wierd, rhythmic, breath-taking steps with amazing skill.

"Dancing may have become a lost art," says one young co-ed, an ardent exponent of the modern method, "but our dances aren't the tedious 'one-two-three' affairs folks used to execute in the name of dancing," and she seems to voice the views of the majority of America's flappers.

With a hint of scorn, the flapper paints a picture of the old-fashioned waltzer and two-stepper, floundering hopelessly around a dance floor, counting the steps with scientific exactness. Then she calls your attention to the free, graceful movements of the present-day gyrations, and, with an insouciant air, asks you to take your choice.

But even if the toddle is suppressed, are the reformers getting anywhere? Will the world then be safe for the waltz and two-step? That is the question

While all the heated denouncements of the toddle are taking place, the toddle is simply dying a natural death.

To make room for the waltz and two-step? Ah, no!

When the toddle was mentioned to a sparkling young prom trotter today, she remarked, with an amused smile, "They aren't doing it at all. Put on a new record and I'll show you the latest dance, the "race horse trot."

And there you are!
